References:-

Ananthaswamy, Rajendran, (2012), “Analytical Solutions Some Two-Point Non-Linear Elliptic Boundary Value Problems”, Applied Mathematics, 3, 1044-1058.

Cortial, Farhat, (2008), “A Time-Parallel Implicit Method for Accelerating the Solution ofNonlinear Structural Dynamics Problems”, International Journal for Numerical Methods in Engineering, 1-22.

Islam, Afroza, (2011), “Numerical Solutions of a Class of Second Order Boundary Value Problems on Using Bernoulli Polynomials”,Applied Mathematics, 2, 1059-1067.

Jackson, (1991), “ASurvey of Parallel Numericalmethods forInitial value problems for Ordinary differential Equations”, IEEE Transactions on Magnetics, 27(5), 3792-3797.

Kosior, Kudela, (2012), “Vortex particle method and ParallelComputing”, Journal of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics 50(1) 285-300.

Mohamed, Elkader,(2011), “The Analytical and Numerical Solutions of Differential Equations Describing of an Inclined Cable Subjected to External and Parametric Excitation Forces”, Applied Mathematics, 2, 1469-1478.

Muniyandi, Zin, (2011), “Membrane Computing as a Modeling Tool for Discrete Systems”, Journal of Computer Science 7 (11), 1667-1673.

Sehgal, Kumar, (2012), “Parallel Computing Use and Their Application”, International Journal of Advances in Engineering Research, 4(1).

Taiwo, Odetunde,(2009), “Approximate solution of variational problems by an iterative decomposition method”, Maejo InternationalJournal of Science and Technology, 3(3), 426-433.

Vaidya, (2012), “Parallel Processing of cluster by Map Reduce”, International Journal of Distributed and Parallel Systems, 3(1), 167-179.